Strategic Planning

Many businesses and individuals get so caught up in working on a day to day basis that they keep putting out fires and never really take the time to plan their future. As a result, many stay right where they are.

Marilyn Manning of The Consulting Team theconsultingteam.com will conduct a workshop on a strategic planning process that will help you define the future you want to create for yourself and/or your business. You will discover how to define your purpose, establish your values, set clear goals with specific time frames and crystallize the action steps that will help your vision become reality.

Attendees will:

- Be introduced to the strategic planning process
- Identify personal vision, core values and goals
- Apply these new skills set to a real world challenge - NOCALL
